Online Master of Communication Management
Leadership through STRATEGIC COMMUNICATION

In a world that’s increasingly connected, organizations with an informed, modern approach to message strategy are among the most successful. The ability of companies to communicate with their stakeholders 24/7 presents a new set of opportunities and challenges, and having advanced, quantifiable communication skills is advantageous in today’s business environment.

If you’re looking to broaden your skill set and increase your value as a professional, the online Master of Communication Management degree at the USC Annenberg School of Communication and Journalism can show you how to blend artful communication with new tools and methodologies so you can stand out in your field.

Merging the Art and Science of MESSAGE STRATEGY

Now that most of our day-to-day communication takes place in the digital realm, messages can spread rapidly worldwide in moments. In the online Master of Communication Management (MCM), you’ll examine case studies of well-executed communication tactics, and learn the psychology behind how audiences are impacted and influenced.

Quantifying goals and outcomes is essential in supporting communication strategy, yet it remains an obstacle for many communications professionals. The online MCM can teach you how to measure and interpret data to present the results of your efforts to the internal and external audiences that matter most.

Advanced Education at Pace with the EVOLVING LANDSCAPE

The online Master of Communication Management was developed to address the constantly changing nature of the communication world and the new toolkit required of professionals in order to stay connected to it. This program blends creativity, technology, conflict management, and interconnectivity to respond to the business needs unique to your world as a communicator.
